MAKING

Opposite: glassblower working with molten glass.
This page, clockwise from top left: handpainting porcelain; scissor cutting a rim; attaching a handle by hand.

Complex traditional techniques transform high quality raw materials into distinctive products for entertaining, dining and decorating. Mouthblown glass offers seemingly endless possibilities for transformation, spurring experimentation with shape, colour and decoration. Our porcelain is produced in bespoke moulds, while multiple firing and glazing ensures its consistent tone and durability.

MATERIALS

Opposite: glassblowing rods in the kiln.
This page, clockwise from top left: natural wood; raw porcelain clay; steel containers before they are enamelled; tanned cowhide

Raw materials are carefully selected for their quality and finish. Molten glass is gathered from the kiln then shaped and blown by teams of skilled craftsmen. Raw porcelain clay is formed in moulds to create an assortment of shapes and sizes. Natural wood is selected from responsible FSC® certified sources. Cowhide is tanned to make leather which naturally darkens in colour with age. Heavy-gauge steel is shaped then enamelled and fired to ensure deep colour and a high quality finish

Discover the transformational potential of mouthblown glass, embodied by these new products in our SS19 collection. Deep colour, delicate tints, lustre finishes and hand cut details decorate both simple forms and statement silhouettes. Specialist RUM drinkware with rounded bowls and thick stems contrasts with the eclectic mix of shapes and colours of CHAMPAGNE THEATRE. Recycled glass range CANOPY explores hydration, propagation and sustainable manufacturing. Award-winning, timeless and best-selling collections are updated with complementary tabletop and decorative designs.

RECYCLED

CANOPY

Environmentally conscious design: A collaboration with the Eden Project

CANOPY is a collection of handmade, recycled glass products designed by LSA International and launched in collaboration with the Eden Project.

The Eden Project, an educational charity, connects us with each other and the living world, exploring how we can work towards a better future. Their visitor destination in Cornwall, UK, is nestled in a huge crater. Here massive covered Biomes housing the largest rainforest in captivity, Mediterranean landscapes, stunning plants, crop displays, art installations, exhibitions and stories serve as a backdrop to striking contemporary Outdoor Gardens, summer concerts and exciting year-round family events.

CANOPY is conceptually inspired by the idea that together we live as one community under the same canopy, and directly references the iconic structure of Eden's Biomes. The product range is centred around hydration and propagation and includes contemporary drinkware, planters and vases. All items are dishwasher safe and boxed in recycled, recyclable packaging printed with organic vegetable inks to further minimise the impact on the environment (refer to page 300 for packaging examples).

Each item is sustainably manufactured from 100% recycled glass, embodying the environmentally conscious act of taking discarded material and turning it into something useful. This echoes the founding principles of the Eden Project, to transform and regenerate, exploring our dependence on the natural world and using that understanding to excite people into delivering transformation where they live.

Available by April 2019.
